thermowave expands its presence in Scandinavia

We are proud to announce that thermowave, part of the Nexson Group, is further expanding its presence in Scandinavia through a strategic partnership with Palmat System AB in Sweden.

Palmat System AB is active in heat-exchange solutions and manufactures prefabricated energy systems in Sweden, with a strong focus on quality, reliability and close customer relationships.

We are particularly pleased to work with Per-Arne Tönners, owner of Palmat System AB, and Jarkko Hautajärvi, an experienced plate heat exchanger expert, who will support the further development of our business across the Nordic region.

We look forward to a successful partnership with Palmat and to strengthening thermowave's plate heat exchanger business throughout Scandinavia.

Together, we are ready for the next chapter of growth in the Nordic market.
